Rumania Yields To Demands of Russians

CAROL'S ACTION AVERTS WAR IN BALKANS

Germany and Italy Urge Nation To Give In as Red Planes Darken Sky

By The Associated Press

War in the Balkans was apparently averted today when King Carol II of Rumania was reported to have yielded to a stiff Russian ultimatum demanding the cession of Rumania's eastern province of Bessarabia and part of another province Bucovina

The Soviet ultimatum timed to expiration at 10 p m today (3 p m Marion time) also demanded rail bases at Rumania's Black sea harbor of Constanta and at certain Danube points diplomatic quarters in Bucharest said

Authoritative reports said Germany and Italy consented to the Soviet demand on Rumania in a deal to pay for Russia's pressure to keep Turkey from joining the Allies and for Soviet economic aid to the axis powers

Reds Bomb Villages

Russian planes bombed villages in Rumania's eastern province of Bessarabia dispatches said and one Soviet plane was shot down

The Russian demands were said to be based on the plane shooting incident but unconfirmed reports earlier this week said infantry skirmishes between Rumanian and Russian troops had occurred in the province Bessarabia belonged to Russia before the World war

In the main European struggle British bombers inflicted very heavy attacks on Germany's rich industrial region of the Ruhr London reported

War Minister Anthony Eden dropped a broad hint that Britain—instead of waiting passively for Hitler's long heralded invasion—might herself launch a bold offensive against Germany

With units of the French fleet reported ready to carry on the fight under British command Eden declared bluntly

No battle can be won by standing on the defensive

Until the time comes to sally forth from the fortress (Britain) to the attack remember that it is not sufficient merely to defeat the attack on these islands

The war ministers statement came shortly after the official disclosure that British landing parties had crossed the channel attacked Nazi troops on the German occupied coastline and obtained valuable reconnaissance formation

French Fleet Still Doubtful

Indications mounted that at least some of France's war fleet flouting armistice provisions for surrender—had cast its lot with Great Britain and pledged a fight to the finish from North African bases

Spanish sources and British reports from Gibraltar said French and Mediterranean naval squadrons had sped past Gibraltar to Casablanca strategic Atlantic port of French Morocco

French warships in the eastern Mediterranean last were reported steaming with the British fleet off Alexandria

One Berlin radio commentator meanwhile said the British government was trying to contact the powers presumably for peace negotiations but London officials said the report was positively absurd

For the sixth time in nine days far-ranging German bombers roared over England from the northeast coast to northern Scotland The air ministry said two of the raiders were shot down and that no serious damage and

Rumors of Peace Appear To Have Little Foundation

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

You probably have heard the rumors which have been going the rounds to the effect that a peace between Great Britain and Germany is in the making

These have been cropping up in various places Yesterday for instance there was the report that Sir Samuel Hoare British ambassador to Spain had broached the question of peace through the Spanish government This morning a Berlin radio commentator said the British were trying to contact the axis powers presumably for peace negotiations

There has been no substantiation of any of these reports but on the contrary all official statements in London have indicated a determination to continue the fight Both the stories mentioned above have been categorically denied

Rumors Start Easily

Rumors spring from such things that it doesn't take much to get them started Take the report about Sir Samuel Hoare While he undoubtedly hasn't made any peace overtures I should be much surprised if he hadn't been sounding to see what the German temper was

What business could a war time ambassador possibly have in the capital of an intermediary nation (as is Spain) if it wasn't to keep a finger on the pulse of the enemy to determine how he felt about peace? It is easy to see how such an inquiry might leak out and create an erroneous impression

The British ministry declared in a statement last night that Britain is facing the coming struggle with confidence It added that England hasn't the slightest intention of laying down her arms without a fight and is determined to carry the struggle through to a victorious end

It is my personal view that this is a fair statement of the present attitude of the British government and public toward peace I don't believe they have any present intention of quitting

Test Coming Soon

But I am bound to say that their present intention (and I repeat that word present) is going to be put to a very terrible test in the immediate future Will that intention weaken if the Germans are able to give England the blood bath they have threatened and the roads of the little country are jammed with helpless women and children fleeing death?

Englishmen don't quit under fire for sake of their own safety But we must recognize that the bulk of Britain's population of 46 millions is centered in the congested areas of the heart of the country What will happen if and when the Nazi bombs begin to rain down on this crowded area? Will the Britons determination and bravery be able to stand it?

We shall have to wait and see I think we had better admit now there always is the possibility that it might be necessary to surrender England itself to save slaughter of civilians. Then the government might as is has declared transfer its activities to Canada and carry on from there

Has England a chance to defeat Germany?

In my view — yes Without question Britain has a terrific task cut out for her but nobody has this war in a sack yet

BIG TERRITORY GIVEN SOVIET; TROOPS CALLED

Bucharest Meets Demands After Reds Mass Army Near Bessarabia

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST June 27—Rumania decided today according to diplomatic quarters to yield vast territorial concession to Soviet Russia but pleaded for time to dicker on the Red demands and ordered a precautionary mobilization

Little more than five hours before expiration of an ultimatum calling for immediate return of Bessarabia and other concessions and amid reports of a Soviet massing of military might Rumania asked for postponement of the deadline fixed at 10 p m tonight (3 p m Marion time)

Red planes were reported darkening the Rumanian skies while Russia massed troops tanks and artillery at the northern frontier

Mobilization Ordered

Simultaneously with the end of an afternoon session of the Rumanian grand council King Carol presiding it became known that a virtual general mobilization order had been issued by the war ministry

Diplomatic observers however expressed belief that Rumania's military measures were of a precautionary nature than indicative of any intention to oppose Russia's demands with force

Apparently Germany and Italy both counseled Rumania to bow to the Russian demands Ministers of the axis powers conferred at length with the young monarch

Authoritative sources said that Russia demanded

Return of Bessarabia once part of Czarist Russia and since 1918 Rumania's eastern bulwark against Communist Russia

Cession of the northern part of the province of Bucovina once part of the Austro Hungarian empire and control of Rumania's big Black sea port Constanta for a naval base along with railway bases and supervision of Galati and Braila two ports which control all navigation on the Danube

Granting of the latter provision would mean Russian control of all traffic on one of Germany's vital lifelines (Reports to Berlin said control of Tulcea another Danube port also was demanded)

Police Call Reserves

Instead of a public announcement from the war ministry the precautionary mobilization call was executed by gendarmes who visited fields and factories stores and homes to call Rumanian reservists to the colors

While military preparations were stepped up Rumania's plea for a postponement of the Russian deadline was forwarded urgently to Moscow

Rumanian acked the Kremlin to agree to send delegates to a conference with Grigore Gafencu former Rumanian foreign minis-

WILLKIE STILL BIG QUESTION MARK AS VOTING TIME NEARS

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 27—With 10 candidates placed in nomination for the presidency, the Republican national convention recessed at 1 45 p m until 3 30 p m when it will start balloting on a 1940 party nominee

By The Associated Press

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA June 27—The prospects of Wendell Willkie and new conferences in Herbert Hoover's hotel suite framed a big question mark over this Republican national convention today as delegates listened to more hours of nominating speeches before balloting on their 1940 standard bearer

Sleepy after a late session last night which was marked by a tremendous demonstration both for and against Willkie, Republicans tramped wearily into the convention hall But even earlier, Hoover reported by some to be the spearhead of an anti Willkie movement, was up and busy

'Draft Hoover' buttons were seen in hotel lobbies for the first time, but the former President had no elaboration on his statement that he was not "seeking' public office

Willkie told reporters that talks of a combination to stop him 'amuse me'

Willkie contended he had been "agreeably surprised' by every check of his delegate strength

Among those who have talked with Hoover were Thomas E Dewey of New York and Sen Robert A Taft of Ohio, both of whom were placed in nomination last night and Sen Arthur H Vandenberg of Michigan whose name was presented today

Chairman Joseph W Martin said in advance of the opening (at 9 30 a m) that he hoped to run off all the remaining six nominating speeches in three hours, then recess a couple hours before ordering the first ballot.

First to be placed in nomination today was Hanford MacNider of Iowa, one-time assistant secretary of war and former national commander of the American Legion

Verne Marshall Cedar Rapids, editor urged MacNider's selection Praising his war record Marshall said

He is the answer to the earnest prayers of millions of Americans who see their country's danger These millions will enlist in his service for the duration of this battle against totalitarianism If he directs it'

Rep Roy O Woodruff of Michigan nominated Vandenberg as a man of character and capacity in whom 'wisdom and experience' were 'linked with vigor and vitality' Vandenberg a "presidential stature' he said has been universally recognized for years

Sen Bridges Nominated

Nominating Sen H Styles Bridges of New Hampshire Rep Foster Stearns of that state told the delegates his candidate was a man of determination spunk and ability"

'The country at this moment is in desperate need of leadership Stearns said 'It needs the experience of a man who has had to struggle for everything he got

The first ballot on which Dewey and Taft are expected to lead probably will come tonight after 10 names have been offered to the convention

Willkie managers predicted his nomination quickly but leaders for other candidates said his drive had been stopped

The extent to which the rivalry reached was demonstrated by an argument over whether Willkie backers had packed the galleries last night in order to stir up enthusiasm for their candidate

Taft Says Galleries Packed

Senator Taft told reporters that holders of 3 000 tickets issued by Samuel Pryor of Connecticut chairman of the arrangements committee had been instructed to cheer when Rep Charles Halleck of Indiana nominated Willkie

Pryor called the statement ridiculous, asking

"Where could I find 3,000 persons? Am I responsible for the enthusiasm?"

R. B Creager, Texas national committeeman and a Taft leader, sought to have persons with similar tickets kept out of the auditorium today.

The Willkie nominating speech was interrupted time and again with boos which were quickly drowned by applause In the demonstration that followed, several fights broke out when delegates tried to wave state standards.

All this was preceded by nominating speeches and parades for Taft, Dewey and Frank Gannett of New York in a six-hour session which saw unanimous adoption of the program which the party offers voters.

This platform denounced the New Deal said the Roosevelt administration had a record of failures and proposed a constitutional amendment to forbid a third term to an man

On national defense the party opposed involvement in foreign wars said the administration had left the nation wholly unprepared to defend itself proposed rearmament to defend the country and uphold the Monroe doctrine, and suggested for nations whose ideals most closely resemble our own such help as shall not be in violation of international law or inconsistent with the requirements of our own national defense

Nominations Started

With the platform out of the way about 5 p m the convention went directly into the oratorical flourishes needed to induct the candidates formally into the race for the nomination

Besides the candidates offered last night Iowa said it would nominate Hanford MacNider Michigan promised to produce Senator Vandenberg New Hampshire Senator Bridges Oregon, Senator McNary Pennsylvania its Governor James South Dakota its Governor Bushfield

After the speech by John Lord O'Brian of New York which put Dewey into the nomination Dewey men leaped to their feet with a roar and went dancing about the floor waving pictures and state standards They kept it up for 20 minutes

Gannett's name was put before the convention by Rep James W Wadsworth a party warhorse of many years, greying and balding now

G. O. P. PLEDGES AID TO NATION'S FARMERS

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 27—The Republican party wooed the powerful farm vote today with a promise to restore agricultural prosperity and continue present government subsidies until that goal is reached.

Incorporating these features in its platform, the national convention also pledged an end to extensive and costly bureaucratic interference" which it attributed to the "government - dominated production control" program of the Roosevelt administration Based on the declaration that prosperous and stable agriculture is the foundation of the nation's economic structure, the platform's farm plank said farmers were entitled to "a profit-price" for their products and an "American price level for domestically-consumed portions of their export crops.

"The Republican party will put into effect such governmental policies, temporary and permanent, as will establish and maintain an equitable balance between labor, industry and agriculture by expanding industrial and business activity, eliminating unemployment, lowering production costs, thereby creating increased consumer buying power for agricultural products," the platform said.

Until this balance has been attained, farmers would continue to receive benefit checks based upon a "constructive soil conservation program free from government-dominated production control."

Republican Platform Puts U. S. Defense Program First

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 — Abandoning earlier talk of making domestic issues paramount, the Republican party started a campaign today to convince the voters that it had the best program to build adequate defense and keep out of war

In a platform speedily and noisily approved by the national convention yesterday, the Republicans designated themselves as the party of "Americanism, Preparedness and Peace"

While they avoided any direct reference to the Democratic party, they charged that the Roosevelt administration had attempted to send congress home "so that we might be eased into war by word or deed."

The Republicans, the platform said are "firmly opposed to involving this nation in foreign war"

Asserting that "men who put America first" must be put in high positions, the 3,000-word campaign document advocated the extension of aid to "all peoples fighting for liberty, or whose liberty is threatened."

Puts Defense First

It said, however, that this aid must not infringe on the requirements of national defense or violate international law.

The platform contended that the New Deal had "failed America" by disclosing details of American military equipment to foreign powers over the protests of defense officials.

It asserted that the New Deal had "ignored" the lessons of modern mechanized armed defense and said that by President Roosevelt's own statements, "we are still wholly unprepared to defend our country"

Topping this was a declaration that 'only a strong and sufficiently prepared America can speak words of reassurance and hope to the liberty-loving peoples of the world"

The Republicans deplored "explosive statements" by President Roosevelt against other governments, contending that they served to imperil American peace.

Legislative proposals included a congressional check on reciprocal trade agreements, modification of the Wagner act, and local control of relief administration. Continuance of soil conservation payments for farmers was advocated

Lodge Gives Summary

In a brief summary of the platform, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr of Massachusetts, told the convention the party stands for 'no foreign war but an "army and navy so strong that no unfriendly power can successfully attack America or its essential outposts

The declaration bitterly criticizes the New Deal for failure to prepare the country, recites the cost of the World war in lives and money and condemns the Roosevelt administration for failure to rid itself of "borers from within" and for encouragement of various groups "that seek to

Beginning today the company will no longer accept money on deposit pay withdrawals to shareholders or pay dividends and will start to accumulate all receipts to pay liquidating dividends This is required by the secton of state law under which the directors voted to liquidate

Reason for Action

Officials of the company today explained why they had decided that liquidation was advisable The company has rallied from the effects of the worst years of the depression and in September of 1938 had resumed the granting of limited withdrawals they said Since that time withdrawals totaling $22 787 have been allowed Also the company has resumed dividend payments after an 18 month interruption late in 1932 and during 1939

Officials point out that while the company has been improving its position in recent years and gradually returning to normal operations several factors greatly increased the competition in its field and diminished the need for continuing its operations One factor was the reduced interest rates at which home loans are being offered through banks insurance companies and federal agencies Another important one was the fact that Marion's two other building and loan companies have obtained federal charters and insurance of accounts The Peoples company's choice of seeking federal insurance difficult for such a small concern to obtain but also necessary if the company was to continue in competition with federalized companies liquidating the directors said

Carefully Considered

In the letter sent to shareholders today the company points out that the voluntary liquidation proceedings provided by state law were studied carefully and that it is our sincere opinion that it is the wise and practical course to follow and that now is the most advantageous time to start Our judgment in this matter has been confirmed by Charles S Merion superintendent of building and loan associations of Ohio who has approved the steps we are taking

The plan of voluntary liquidation to be followed will be managed by the present officers and directors except that all proceedings will be under the direct authority of the superintendent of building and loan associations and the records of the company will be subject to regular auditing by department examiners

We will cease to pay semi-annual dividends and all cash receipts will be accumulated for the sole purpose of making pro rata liquidating dividends to shareholders as quickly and frequently as possible consistent with sound disposition of the real estate and mortgages held by the company There will be no sacrifice of the assets The letter also points out that the board of directors has functioned for the last eight years without compensation

The section of law governing the proceedings provides in part that "no court shall appoint a receiver for any purpose in connection with such liquidation" The company emphasized that the proceedings are entirely voluntary and will be carried out by the present management They said the state building and loan department has informed them that a number of building and loan companies in Ohio are liquidating under the plan adopted here

Financial Summary

The company's running stock totals $285 268 94 Its assets at book value include real estate of $175 806 mortgage loans on real estate totaling $96 147 53 real estate sold on land contracts totalling $26 555 government bonds totaling $36,550 and cash on hand amounting to $9 725 The bonds will be converted into cash immediately to be used in making the first liquidating dividend payment The company's reserve and undivided profit account totals $52 237 78

Officials said the company owes no borrowed money and has all bills paid

The company was organized July 14 1915 by A C Edmondson J F Prendergast Josiah Bindley J M Schneider M C O'Brien, John Baldauf Charles Mapes William W Klinefelter and W C Gorton It was operated for a number of years on North Main street and in 1924 was moved to its present location

The present directors are W C Gorton Alfred Donithen George E Frank M C O'Brien and John Baldauf Mr Gorton is president, Mr Frank is vice president and Karl W Schell is secretary and treasurer The company is represented by the law firm of Donithen & Mickel

Mr Schell and W W Wheaton of Columbus, special deputy superintendent in charge of the liquidation of building and loan companies in Ohio has been appointed deputy superintendent in charge of the liquidation proceedings Mr Wheaton was in Marion today together with state department auditors to assist the board in starting the liquidation program

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Fears Dicky and Harry Plan To Join the Expedition To Trap Leslie.

"I'LL TRY to be back within the hour," I told Nurse Whitlock, and hurried away to the kitchen. I was distinctly worried by this confirmation of my earlier impression that Edith Fairfax's mental or physical condition—perhaps both—was not improving as I had hoped when I had first given her my room for privacy and recuperation from the terrible strain of the retribution following her sinister activities against Harry and me.

But I had no time to dwell upon that just at present. I must obey my father's injunction to have the halls absolutely clear, and nobody looking out of the windows while the impersonators of Mary and Noel left for the rendezvous with Jack Leslie's men.

To my relief Jim was in the kitchen when I entered. Katie might be tempted to forget my injunction, and try to "take vun leetle peek" at the strange things which were happening, but Jim was like a rock of dependability, and I lost no time in making my father's wishes known.

"My father wished you to stay where you are until I come back here," I said. "And he especially directs that you are to pull down the curtains at once, and not look out the windows."

"Shoost Vun Little Peek"

I added the bit about the curtains on my own account. But I knew Katie's proclivities for "running and finding out" moongoose fashion, and that no precaution was too great to keep her from "snooping" when such exciting doings were in the wind.

"Oh-h-h!" she exclaimed, her eyes shining. "Me, I tink sumtung very foony and beeg happening. Misses Graham, eef I cross my heart, hope to die I nefer say vun word to anybody, couldn't I take shoost vun leetle peek?"

Her tone was so childlike, so wheedling, that I had to steel my heart against her before I refused her.

"Im sorry, Katie," I said, "but my father's orders are most strict."

"And they'll be obeyed," Jim said sternly, walking to the windows, and lowering the shades. "Now, Katie, my girl, if you want any more light, you turn on the electricity. I'll be staying right here until you come back, so you don't need to worry about anything."

I left the room precipitately, for Katie, in her disappointment, was lashing out at her usually indulgent but occasionally firm husband with a tempestuous vituperation which contained some of her choicest epithets. I closed the door upon, "You beeg dish of soup greens!" and made my way to the library, with a vague uneasiness not in the least mitigated by Katie's mirth-provoking vagaries.

Lillian was not there when I went in, but came before I had time to range up and down the floor more than twice.

"What's nibbling at the nerve-ends?" she demanded in a low voice when she had closed the door.

Frightening News

"You are," I told her with a wry smile. "It seemed to me you had something not so pleasant on your mind when you asked me to come down here."

"I have," she said grimly, "but first I'll run up and tell your father the coast is clear. Your section is all right, I know, or you wouldn't be here."

"Yes, there'll be no difficulty," I told her, and she went swiftly out of the room upon the assurance, pausing at the door only long enough to say, "I'll be right back."

Left alone, I could only resume my ranging of the room, for I found it impossible to sit still. And it was thus that Lillian found me when she came back.

Erring Husbands

"Sit down!" she said, pulling up chairs. "I won't tell you a thing unless you get yourself in hand."

I forced my muscles and my will to obedience and took the chair she pushed toward me. She sat down in one opposite, and then leaned forward and scrutinized my face.

"Pull yourself together!" she commanded sharply, "and prepare to face something which may not come off. But I think both Harry and the Dicky-bird are planning to go on this expedition for the fooling of Jack Leslie."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Malnutrition

In connection with our diets for underweight, it would help to an understanding if we would examine the nature of chronic malnutrition and its causes.

Aside from any real disease process which causes malnutrition and which we discussed recently, the factors which condition nutrition are physical environment, psychological environment, food, individual requirements, appetite and utilization of food. The physical environment, which depends upon the economic state, the geography, the amount of fresh air, housing conditions, exercise and adequate rest periods, needs no comment.

Food Comes First

Nor does the psychological environment. We all know people who worry themselves thin. Under individual requirments we also know people who need more sleep, more exercise, or more laughter than their neighbors.

Appetite to a considerable extent depends upon the proper amount of vitamins in the food, and so does absorption. Physical activity has a great deal to do with the proper utilization of food. By increasing energy expenditure, the calorie requirements of the food are raised by several hundred or thousand calories. If this is not met, malnutrition will result. Here is another vacation diet for the underweight.

Breakfast: Baked apple; liver and bacon; 2 eggs; 2 slices toast and butter; coffee with cream and sugar.

Mid-morning: Glass milk, ½ cream.

Lunch: Cream soup; croutons; smoked sturgeon; bread with butter; fresh peas; salad; fresh berries with cream and sugar.

Mid-afternoon: Orange juice.

Dinner: Tomato juice cocktail; beefsteak with mushrooms; peppers stuffed with cheese; bread and butter; Romaine anchovy salad; cream puff; coffee with cream.

Evening: Eggnog.

Approximate value—3,900 calories.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. L.—Is sweating at night in children always due to late afternoon fever?

Answer—Late afternoon fever means infection, and sweating in children is often due to rickets. In fact, in the spring, it is more often due to rickets than it is to fever.

America's Philosopher of Liberty

HERBERT HOOVER'S speech to the Republican convention did what Gov. Stassen's keynote address Monday night didn't do—gave listeners something they could get their teeth into. It challenged Americans to use the two party system for something higher than partisan bickering.

Mr. Hoover is America's foremost philosopher of liberty. During the ascendancy of totalitarianism which began in Germany almultaneously with his retirement from the presidency in 1933 Mr. Hoover has studied the stresses threatening liberty as an engineer studies a problem in bridge construction. He has brought to bear on the project all the knowledge gained from his varied experiences. Liberty has been the theme for every important public speech he has made during the last seven years. Recent events have changed him from a voice crying in the wilderness to a spokesman for the last stronghold of freedom.

What he had to tell the Republican convention Tuesday night was his personal conviction that liberty can be preserved by sidestepping the dangers which have destroyed it abroad and threaten it here. It was a message of faith in American institutions courage and resources.

Mr. Hoover albeit he spoke in the surcharged atmosphere of a party convention, spoke not as a partisan but as an elder statesman whose interest in the sunset years of an active career is the light of freedom in a world growing dark.

HIS criticisms of New Deal shortcomings are the measured judgment of all men who look objectively at their government in these uncertain times. They are the things a professor of political science could say with as much grace as the only living former president of the United States. They are the observations of numerous Democrats and they are the observations of all persons who do not profess allegiance to either major party. The New Deal contrary to its own advertising can stand a lot of improving.

Liberty in the United States is subject to the same attacks which have blacked it out temporarily in the old world. There exists here the same temptation to lean on authority and the same impulse to multiply the sources of political authority which sapped the strength of liberty abroad. The temptation and impulse have been embodied perhaps without conscious encouragement in the New Deal manner of government. There has been an attempt to stabilize the causes of dependency. Preservation of liberty demands attempts to remove them.

Mr. Hoover believes America's destiny is to continue to be the citadel of freedom. It must become so strong inwardly and outwardly that no nation will be tempted to attack it. When the storm has passed it must be prepared to rehabilitate the victims of violence and to help them with its moral and physical strength. It must assiduously avoid war to fulfill this obligation. It must keep liberty alive against the day when other peoples, having traveled the road of despair, will turn again to the one ideal which has compelled universal effort for hundreds of years—the right to be something more than animals running with the pack.

TO DO these things is an ambition worthy of any political party in which Mr. Hoover happened to occupy a position of leadership. There is nothing in his outline of American destiny to which any Democrat including President Roosevelt properly can take exception. There is nothing in his observation of the things threatening liberty in America to which any politician can offer argument except as a narrow partisan. Americans are fortunate to have a man whom circumstances have given the depth and breadth of vision possessed by Mr. Hoover. Were it not for the curse of piffling politics and narrow self-seeking his value to America would be acknowledged as freely in one party as in the other. Preservation of liberty is not a partisan issue.

There is talk of Mr. Hoover as the Republican presidential nominee. As a statesman qualified by experience he stands alone among the leaders in both parties. Perhaps the exigencies of conducting a successful campaign call for another man to bear the party standard but the exigencies of meeting the nation's peril call just as strongly for the candidates of both parties to accept his views.

Free enterprise has made America strong. It must be protected. The authoritarian idea which has precipitated turmoil and destroyed freedom must be resisted not to win an election not to please this politician or that one but to win the battle for the dignity of mankind.

Authorities Reported To Have Blocked Plan To Bomb G. O. P. Convention.

By PAUL MALLON

PHILADELPHIA June 27—The six-shooting delegate from Texas who claimed there was not enough dynamite in the convention apparently did not know the inside of the fantastic bomb plot that was to blow the Republicans higher than a Democratic ideal.

The story was smothered for fear it would frighten some of the apprehensive lady alternates but it was real enough to the state troopers Philadelphia police and G-Men who discovered about five bombs located at or destined for strategic convention assembling points.

In reality the plot was never out of their control. A state trooper had been planted among the plotters. So well did he do his job that he was among those designated to place one of the bombs. To escape and spread the word to his superiors he feigned illness realistically and was carried off to a hospital. From there he tipped headquarters and within a few minutes some of the disordered brains which conceived an explosion demonstration that might have been serious were captured.

Paul Mallon

The haste with which police had to act however permitted others to escape. Their radical identities were known.

Platform From Ground Up

This 1940 Republican statement of principles was built from the ground up. In the past ideals have slid from the top down. A few leaders usually arrived with complete drafts or planks which generally were accepted with a few changes of wording but little alteration of thought. This time the original draft of the platform was left largely in the open hands of such experienced men as Landon Henry Fletcher Walter Edge George Wharton Pepper and Glenn Saxon the Republican economic brainstormers working with about 80 grass roots delegates on sub committees.

But even they could not compose a platform that was acceptable to the full drafting committee. The full committee slapped back their handiwork and demanded two changes of the greatest importance—a firmer keep us out of war decree and the elimination of language in the social security plank that might have been construed as indorsing the Townsend plan.

Lobbyists for special business labor farm and other interests who usually swarm upon the platform drafters gave evidence of the new way things were going by their failure to appear in anything like their usual numbers. One drafter confessed with astonishment he had not seen a lobbyist after the inside writing work started.

Landon Concedes

Behind the best guarded door any platform committee ever had the drafters gave some inner demonstration that they are still an orderly folk.

Two leading objectors to the original international plank draft when it was presented to the full committee were Wayland Brooks of Illinois and the Committee's temporary chairman Hebert K. Hyde the Oklahoman who has some fighting Cherokee blood in his veins and uses it.

Landon was taken back somewhat by their objections to the wording of the text he had brought in. He had not expected isolationist sentiment to arise in this quarter at least not so strongly. It looked like their differences must develop into a weakening open fight on the floor of the convention.

A congressman on the committee whispered in Landon's ear that both Hyde and Brooks were outstanding speakers and might welcome an opportunity to present their case before the microphones. Furthermore they seemed to have a number of supporters around the committee table.

To keep the peace Landon folded his hands and sent the fond results of his long and arduous labor back to the sub committee for fixing that would keep Hyde and Brooks quiet.

'An American Platform' Grows Out of Letters to Miss Thompson.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The following article was prepared by Miss Thompson on the opening day of the Republican convention. Of it she states: "It was written not by myself but out of the cries of unknown Americans who pour out their longing and faith in letters and ask me to articulate their hopes for them. And written out of words of men to men by Europeans who look to America as the last hope.

PHILADELPHIA June 27—We the people of the United States now in the face of desperate times sworn and pledge each other with our lives our fortunes and our sacred honor with the intelligence of our brains, the work of our hands and the strength and affection of our hearts never to tolerate a foreign judge on this continent and to hold each other and support each other on what may that the American dream of freedom, of equality and of happiness may be realized by us and through us for mankind.

We hold these truths to be self-evident that man is a child of God and of nature that is every school child sings in the national hymn God is our king and we are protected by His might, and all our rights derive from Him and we are endowed with them only by our Maker.

We pledge allegiance to the truths that have been revealed to us in our most intimate personal experience that we are all members one of another that whatsoever we sow we shall reap that men do not gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles that the word is only a word until it is made flesh and that neither in this mountain nor in Jerusalem shall men worship the Father but they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth.

We believe these words and others prayed by men for thousands of years to be no mystic revelation of a world after death but scientifically precise truths about the relations of men on earth. And we pledge and swear to each other that we shall make His kingdom come on earth as it is in heaven.

We sweat that we shall take the Christian idea upon which this nation was founded out of the churches where it is enshrined and from under the bushel where it has stifled and set it up on a candlestick on our common table where it will give light to all the earth.

We pray that we shall be forgiven our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us. We stretch our hand therefore to each who will join us, regardless of what he has hitherto believed up to this moment. Conscious of our own innumerable errors we hold against no man his previous actions within the law. We welcome to our fellowship to our comradeship to our great endeavor those who have been conservatives or liberals or radicals, those who have been communists and those who have been Nazis we welcome all the races of this nation of races. We welcome the rich who care more for this cause than for their riches and we welcome the poor for whom the democratic ideal shall be made a fleshly reality of work and bread and freedom and brotherhood. For we too are prepared to cast off the old man and be renewed.

We know only one enemy those who preach hatred amongst brothers those who incite creed against creed race against race shifting class against class, nation against nation.

We shall free speech in to an instrument of discussion amongst free responsible and affectionate men and women. We shall cleanse it of all abasement into an instrument of internecine war.

We shall free assembly into an open forum where all may present their views according only to the rules of human courtesy and the right of differences to be heard from every floor.

We shall free the press into an instrument for the dissemination of honest information and open responsible criticism, instead of an instrument of sensationalism gossip agitation and anonymous propaganda.

We shall free individual citizens from the impertinent pryings of the press and establish for them the right of privacy in their homes and their personal relations.

We shall free the collective conscience into the impelling power of a new society.

We shall make real the prayer, 'Give us this day our daily bread.' To that end we demand that the resources of this nation of this soil upon which we all live whether in public or in private hands, shall be recognized as communal wealth and be fully mobilized to the end that every child shall be fed, clothed and educated according to his ability and according to the communal need that every man and woman shall have the necessities of life consisting of decent food clothing and shelter provided they are willing to work, that they shall be free in their choice of work, but encouraged and assisted in retraining if their choice lies in an overcrowded field.

In the attainment of this goal we shall follow no patented formula and no preconceived prejudices believing that it is the spirit which quickeneth. We shall move with an eye toward objective reality using to the fullest possible extent the existing organizations but co-ordinating all of them into the service of the common aim. But we shall move with disregard of all vested interests financial economic or political. We shall recognize the differences of ability in men the inequalities ordained in nature but we shall seek to lift the less gifted to an ever higher level

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday June 27 1930.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Pangborn of Girard avenue returned from a visit with their daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brokaw of Rogers Park Chicago.

Miss Lola Dietz of St. Petersburg Fla. who had been visiting with Miss Ruby Craner at her home on Cherry street accompanied Miss Craner to Springfield to attend a convention of Gamma province of Kappa Delta sorority.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Schneider of Canby court.

City and county police officers were searching throughout north-central Ohio for a bandit trio who shot Ralph Wilcox 35 filling station attendant at Galion and left him in a dying condition.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday June 27 1920.

Judge Grant T. Mouser returned from Cleveland where he had been holding court since the first of June.

The fifteenth annual reunion of the Houk family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Houk north of Marion. Elmer Rusler was elected president.

Harry E. Mason former city and county auditor died at his home on East Center street at the age of 35.

Daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Ward C. Hufford of North Prospect street and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Baumgartner of Fahey street and sons to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Matthee of South Main street and Mr. and Mrs. George Perrine of Mason. Mrs. Perrine before her marriage was Anna Uncapher daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Uncapher of near Marion.

Senator Warren G. Harding was on a week-end trip to the summer home of Senator Frelinghuysen at Raritan N. J. and was to return to Washington on Tuesday to resume his senatorial duties and arrangements for start of his campaign for the presidency. Party conferences were to be held in Washington before Saturday the day when the senator and his party expected to leave for his home in Marion. On his trip here he is expected to take his office staff of about 20 clerks, stenographers and typists and to have the corps located in Marion until after the November election.

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts candidate for vice president, was to meet Mr. Harding Wednesday to talk over speeches of acceptance to be made by the two nominees and also other plans for the campaign. During the senator's absence from Washington many letters and telegrams had been received from active Republicans in the far west urging him to come to that section during the campaign to meet the voters. It was reported that a concerted movement was on in the west to force a change of the Republican program for a front porch campaign. There was no indication that any such change would be made as it had been indorsed unanimously by the Republican national committee and was in accord with Mr. Harding's views. It was agreed that developments might make it advisable to give two or more important speeches in such large centers as Chicago and New York but a barnstorming campaign was not thought likely. The campaign was to proceed under the personal direction of Mr. Harding after leaving Washington. He expected to invite to his Marion home for conferences many leading Republicans.

The World War 25 Years Ago

By United Press

JUNE 27, 1915

Austrian army turned Russian line and recaptured Halicz on Eastern Front.

Battle of Festubert marked by British offensive on Western Front ended.

Different Washington

It Looks the Same But War Abroad Has Changed All

WASHINGTON June 26—On the surface Washington doesn't look so different—but it is.

The thousands and thousands of government clerks and bosses still swarm into the buildings in the mornings and out at nights. Paydays on the first and fifteenth still are the months most important events. Shops are doing business as usual. Tourists—America's great summertime floating population—still are seen in droves in the Capitol corridors in Arlington cemetery or taking snapshots through the iron spikes of the fence around the White House.

Jack Stinnett

Crowds still visit Griffith stadium to cheer the Washington Senators as they fight for cellar position in the American League.

Rock Creek park and the National Zoo still are a clutter of shade seeking humanity on weekends.

On the surface it may be any summer in Washington—but it isn't.

You don't have to put your ear to the ground to hear the talk and it's hotter much hotter than the lassitude of a Washington summer merits.

On the one hand it's the stormy gobble about war and defense and railing at the snail's pace at which the industrial and military preparedness machines seem to be getting under way. On the other there's grim insistence that we must not be led into the European shambles and ranting caution against hot headed 'waving of an empty gun.'

Sitting In On History

Everywhere you go it's talk talk talk—but that isn't all. Open a few doors and you'll find activity.

Some of it's strange. In the senate gallery day after day for weeks two women in middle years have come early taken the same seats and stayed until the gavel fell on adjournment. Finally a gallery guard asked them why and got this answer. "We know war is going to be declared and we want to be here when it happens."

At least four times in recent weeks cheers and applause have burst upon the solemn senate from the gallery and twice the dignified gentlemen of the upper chamber have had to ask the guards to clear the balcony of exuberant constituents. Such goings on are taboo in the galleries no matter how much flag-waving there is on the floor.

Such things however are minor upsets and the real thing is taking place behind the doors of various departments.

The public buildings administration is in a dither trying to find office space for all the new commission setups and the enlargement of already existing agencies.

The new social security and railroad retirement buildings will not be ready until mid winter. The new war department building won't be ready until a year from now. In the meantime there's the matter of the national defense commission which already is numbering its employes in the hundreds and probably will count them in the thousands before the defensive drive reaches its peak. They've started in like marble coolness of the federal reserve building and slopped over into the munitions buildings and several temporary buildings which are what any city would have to offer in the way of vacant office space.

Rush Of Job Hunters

An architecht told me that nearly a thousand of his job-hungry brethren had descended on Washington seeking plant expansion jobs. Knudsen Stettinius & Co.—the defense commission—have received so many applicants that a temporary bureau has been set up in the munitions building halls just to receive them.

The payoff of it all is that probably not a single hinterland stranger will be hired now in the defense program. The experts are bringing in their own experts and for office help and lesser jobs there are the thousands (about 4,000 it is estimated) of government employes who would be out of jobs under the economy campaign. The idea is to absorb these whenever possible and for all other purposes (such as agricultural and commercial statistical information) use existing agencies.

As one defense commission official put it—off the record—"If you want a government job under the new program stay at home."

Daily Bible Thought

THE PRAYER OF FAITH. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick and the Lord shall raise him up and if he have committed sins they shall be forgiven him. —James 5:15.

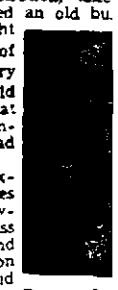
Our Old Man

He Longed for Authority To Things No One Else Ever D Anything About Till Too Late.

By DAMON RUNYON

OUR OLD man said if he had authority he would save this country thousands of lives and millions and millions of dollars and grief every year by just attending to the things that nobody does anything about. He said he meant attending to these things before something happened.

He said as a minor illustration, take the fire which had just destroyed an old building on lower Santa Fe ave right there in our old home town of Pueblo resulting in the injury of several persons. Our old man said everybody knew that building had been a fire menace for years but nobody had done anything about it.



He said things like that existed all over the United States of America. He said everywhere there were countless menaces to life and limb and property that were common knowledge but nobody did anything about. He said he could go to hundreds in every community the most appalling threats to public health of which everybody was aware but nobody did anything whatever.

Damon Ru

OUR OLD man said even worse than physical threats, however were the menaces that nobody did anything about. He said he could go into hundreds of cities towns and find corruption in the municipal governments and vice and other violation of law in all quarters which were familiar to everybody but nobody did anything about.

He said he could probably find organized inimical to the public peace and amity which everybody knew would sooner or later cause a lot of trouble but that nobody did anything about. He said even in national affairs there were omissions and abuses so generally recognized that they were the subject of personal comment and criticism in the newspapers but nobody did anything about.

Our old man said of course he did not figure that he could do all the work himself, tending to the things that nobody does anything about. He said he would want a certain department of the government set up under his administration like the war department with branches and agents all over the country.

He said it would be the duty of these agents to remedy the things that nobody does anything about such as river levees that were not hold back floods and loose swinging bridges that were a menace to pedestrians and dangerous railroad crossings and faulty building constructions and polluted water supplies and indifference and neglect in public offices.

HE SAID his agents would have an easy time because all they would have to do would be to wander about the various communities in which they were stationed and listen to the casual conversation of the citizens of things that nobody did anything about. He said there would be no detective work attached to their positions because there always is casual conversation in a community about the things that nobody does anything about.

Our old man said of course he would have to have a very large appropriation especially for legal purposes because it has been his observation that a great many things that nobody does anything about exist mainly because of the opposition of selfish interests. He said several times he had quietly investigated the reasons for the existence of public menaces of one kind and another that were common knowledge and that nobody did anything about. He had found that nobody did anything about them because they were supported by selfish interests that were difficult to overcome.

HE SAID he wanted a legal staff at his disposal to his department so he could put up the entatives of interests such as that in the steel house. He said he supposed too he would have to spend a large sum of money in the conduct of his department but that he had faith out where in one single detail he would be able to save the country money no matter how much he spent.

Our old man said that this one detail alone the cost of the investigations that would follow the things nobody does anything about when something finally happens.

Anecdotes of Ohio

By GILBERT F. DODDS

Joining John Murell's notorious band of outlaws purported to number more than a thousand men in Ohio Kentucky and Tennessee Virgil Stewart gained the confidence of the leader Murell and brought about his subsequent arrest.

Murell born of poor parents in Tennessee in 1804 first got his name on court records in Ohio when he was fined for rioting.

It appeared again in 1825 for gaming twice in 1826 for horse stealing. Murell and Stewart that after serving 12 months in prison he began to see the value of having friends in this business.

Captured by Stewart in 1834 after a crime reign of eight years, Murell was sentenced to a 10-year prison term which he served in full. The outlaw died a few months after his discharge.

Our Defense

By EDWARD J. MEEMAN
Editor Memphis Press-Scimitar

Hitler wants to conquer the world by force of arms and force of ideas. He wants to force the world to his way of thinking and obey. Let us not yield to him.

Hitler says democracy must fail because people can't rule themselves and won't work together and sacrifice for each other voluntarily. Let's prove him wrong—let's pull together for one for all and all for each. Let's share our worldly goods with each other and with our government. Let's pay taxes to make this nation sound and safe from collapse within or attack from without.

Hitler punishes men who say what they think. Let us speak our opinions boldly and respect the right of our neighbor to speak his.

Hitler will not let people assemble to express their views or voice their grievances. Let us protect freedom of assembly and the right of petition.

Hitler controls the press and lets the people hear only one side of the story—his side. Let us keep the press free and hear all sides.

Hitler believes that one man is competent to decide what is best for a country. Let us believe that through the contribution of many minds and the expression of different opinions we find the best way on which we can agree.

Hitler says war is better than peace. Let us know that war is hell and resort to it only to enforce and preserve peace.

Hitler despises all nations and races but his own. Let us know that 'God hath made of one blood all nations of men.'

Let us look to our own noble patterns—Washington and Jefferson, Lincoln and Lee. Let us think nothing and do nothing that we wouldn't do

BARN AT MT. GILEAD DESTROYED BY FIRE

Bolt of Lightning Cause of $1,000 Blaze.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, June 27—A 36 by 60 barn at the home of Glenn [illegible], Mt. Gilead rural mail carrier, was destroyed by fire struck by lightning shortly after 5 p. m. Tuesday. Earley's home is located on Neal avenue [illegible] corporation line.

The lightning struck the southwest corner of the structure and efforts of Earley and his son, Justin, to extinguish the blaze were unsuccessful. Delay in reaching a telephone resulted in the barn being completely enveloped in flames by the time the fire department arrived, 15 minutes later.

There was no livestock or machinery in the barn and only a small quantity of hay, fodder, and grain, all of which was destroyed. The loss, unofficially estimated at $1,000 is partially covered by insurance.

By The Associated Press

SHAKER HEIGHTS COUNTRY CLUB, CLEVELAND, June 27—Bob Servis of Dayton fired four birdies today to eliminate Melvin G. Sulser of Columbus, 6 and 7 in the opening match play round of the 37th state amateur golf tournament.

Servis, defending champion and winner of the title three times in the last six years, was squarely atop his game. He won the qualifying medal yesterday with a sub par 70 but he refused to accept the trophy because he was an automatic qualifier and the medal went to 20-year-old Bob Castor of Ashland, who was second with 71.

John Lorms, son of Charley Lorms, pro at Columbus country club, won the dubious honor of meeting Servis in the second round by eliminating Don Day of Cleveland, 6 and 5. Lorms was one under par for the 13 holes.

140 Couples At St. Mary Alumni Reunion Event

APPROXIMATELY 140 couples attended the benefit dance and reunion sponsored by the St. Mary Alumni association last evening at Rainbow Gardens. Bob McMahon's orchestra played for dancing from 10 until 1 o'clock and during an intermission Carl Manaci entertained with a tap dance number. A dance number also honored Mrs. Edward Neidig who was celebrting her birthday anniversary.

The grand march was led by Eugene Fetter, president of the association and general chairman for the dance, and Miss Pauline Gunder. During the evening the following past presidents of the Alumni association were introduced: Ed. McAndrew, Edward Neidig, Thomas E. Andrews, Robert O'Connell and Robert Kelly.

Assisting the officers and committees in sponsoring the dance were a number of Catholic business men of the city.

The success of last night's event launched a movement to make the dance and reunion an annual affair, Mr. Fetter said today.

Germans Report Bomb Raids on British Ports

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 27—German airmen "successfully bombed" English ports and plane factories during the night, the high command announced today, but apparently the "thousand-fold" retaliation for British attacks on Germany, the object of press clamor, was still to come.

Aside from repetition of the on slaughts on the British isles, the daily communique presented this picture of the European war:

1—German forces of occupation move into the coastal region east of Bordeaux. The Dordogne sector, apparently Dordogne department, was reached yesterday.

2—Easy repulse of "weak enemy naval forces" making reconnaissance attacks on the northern coast of France the night of June 24-25. (The British declared these landing parties obtained useful information in clashes with German troops.)

3—Sinking of 35,000 tons of British shipping by a submarine.

4—Resumption of British night air raids on Germany. The high command again said the bombs caused no military damage, but acknowleged several civilians were killed or injured. Three of the British raiders were shot down.

Demands that England be punished "a thousand-fold" for nightly air raids on Germany swelled to an angry chorus in Berlin newspapers today.

Press, radio and authorized spokesmen charged the British with "bombing aimlessly," killing civilians and damaging non-military objects.

King's Daughters Surprise Party at Meredith Home

IP NEIGHBORS were a bit surprised upon seeing members of the Circle of Light of the King's Daughters rush from their homes yesterday morning sans hats and hose, and clad in bathrobes, housecoats and other sundry raiment, they will be relieved to know it wasn't a "blitzkrieg" and that they weren't answering a "riot call."

The occasion was the surprise "as you are" party arranged by two of the members to carry out plans made by the circle for some kind of a social meeting during the summer.

The surprise call came around 7 o'clock when Mrs. Helen Meredith and Mrs. Irene Dengler arrived in a large bus to "take the members to the party." Some laid aside garden tools and others just turned off the toaster to board the bus. Those answering the bell in pajamas were given a minute to don housecoats or bathrobes, but there was no time out for "making up." One member who grabbed a pair of hose as she was leaving home, hoping to get them on before arriving at the party, was told to "put them back into her purse." When the party finally was rounded up there were eight children who had been roused from their morning sleep and taken along because there was no one home with whom they might stay.

When 24 members had been gathered up the bus drew up to the home of Mrs. Meredith at 143 Spencer street where breakfast was served. The time was spent socially until 11 o'clock when the bus arrived to deliver the guests to their homes.

Platform Puts Defense Program First

"Our sympathies have been ...friendly stirred by invasion of ...fending countries and by dis... nations whose ideas most ...closely resemble our own. While the platform followed the ...program report of Dr. ...Frank in swallowing much ...the New Deal, it was filled ...violent attacks on New Deal ...hods and administration.

Main Planks in G.O.P. Platform

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 27.—The following are highlights of the Republican platform as prepared by the national convention's resolutions committee:

The Republican party stands for Americanism, preparedness and peace. No foreign war. An army and navy so strong that no unfriendly power can successfully attack America or its essential interests.

National defense is vital to our existence as a nation of free people. A free economy is necessary in war as in peace. People of the United States feel and express a sympathetic interest in all oppressed peoples everywhere who are struggling to establish or maintain their homes and their liberties.

Upon this foundation we pledge ourselves to carry out the following:

1. Idle men, idle capital, and idle farms will be put to work to create new wealth and profits insuring stable government and greater purchasing power among all our people.

2. Local control of unemployment relief with federal grants on the basis of greatest need, thus wiping out waste and politics and placing a larger share of the relief dollar in the hands of the man on relief. No one to go cold and hungry in America.

3. Increased security for the aged and a real chance and a real job for those in early life who have been forgotten.

4. Sound collective bargaining. Teamwork between employer and employe and protection of the rights of labor.

5. Fairness to all agricultural producers. American markets for the American farmer, with provision for soil conservation, reclamation and sound rural credit.

6. A tariff policy, scientifically devised, which will protect American labor, industry and agriculture.

7. Sound money with control of the currency vested in congress, as provided in the Constitution.

8. Conservation of the public credit and economy in governmental expenditures without sacrificing the needs of the people.

9. Government jobs on the basis of merit and not through political influence.

10. Equality of opportunity in the industrial and political life of the nation, regardless of race, color or creed.

11. No third term for any president.

On the domestic front, these attacks, the proposal for an anti-third term constitutional amendment and an open bid for the union support of John L. Lewis' Congress of Industrial Organizations constituted the three highlights.

Say People Seduced

The New Deal was belabored for "seducing our people to become continuously dependent upon government" for "viciously attacking our industrial system," for attempting to send our congress home during the world's most tragic hour, so that we might be eased into war by words or deed during the absence" and for "ignoring the lessons of fact concerning modern, mechanized, armed defense."

The party tacitly admits the improbability of achieving a balanced budget within the next few years. It pledges to levy sufficient taxes to pay civil expenditures and the interest and retirement on the national debt, but only enough to cover "a substantial part of the defense cost." Since this cost is now a large percentage of total government expenditures, the country apparently can look forward in a balanced budget under neither the Republican nor the Democratic party.

The only change recommended in the relief setup is to return administration of relief back to the states and "remove waste, discrimination and politics." The G.O.P. urges extension of old age and unemployment compensation benefits and advocates financing on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

Farm Planks

The party expresses hope to eliminate the necessity for farm benefits by raising the general national income, but pledges to continue the bulk of New Deal farm policies until such a time arrives. The chief point of difference with the New Deal on the farm front is the promise to free rural areas from production control.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade agreements program is condemned because it is not now subject to congressional ratification. The party limits its announced objectives to a statement that "these defects we shall correct."

The platform pledges to repeal the foreign silver purchase act, to relax SEC regulations that hamper the flow of capital and to revise the tax system to stimulate enterprise.

A plank urging submission of a constitutional amendment providing for equal rights for women is included. There are also promises to back equal rights for Negroes, vigorous prosecution of anti-trust laws, reduction of federal competition with business, elimination of federal speech censorship on the radio, establishment of a "real merit system" and enactment of laws placing a judicial curb on administration agencies.

WHERE IS FRANK BUCK?

7-Year-Old Ohio Girl Reports Quite a Find.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 27—Great... jous snakes alive, and where's Frank Buck!

The Cincinnati zoo had a letter today from Milfred Blazer, age 7, of Gallipolis, asking if it were "interested" in a 35-foot reptile assertedly slithering over the hills of her parents' farm, 12 miles south of there.

"I was in the woods locating logs," she wrote, "when I stepped up to what I thought to be a log—until it moved off. It was rusty black or brown in color, about 10 or 12 inches through and about 35 feet in length.

"A snake of immense size has been seen previously by my father and several others.

"If you are interested, let me know."

"We're interested, all right," commented Ned Hastings of the zoo's public relations staff, "but I'm just a little afraid...."

BALKANS

"only slight" casualties were reported.

DNB, German news agency, reported that on the night of June 20 alone British raiders dropped 371 bombs on German soil, killing 16 and injuring 41. At German-held Heller, in The Netherlands, 36 were reported killed and 22 wounded by 200 bombs the night of June 24.

Britain's raid on German positions along the continental coast, reported yesterday, was scoffed by DN as "ridiculous... insignificant." The news agency said the raiders were driven off after wounding two Germans.

The British hinted the attack might presage repeated raids to harass Nazis at jumping-off points for direct attacks on England.

Tension increased in the Balkans and the Far East.

Official Japanese sources said an envoy from Tokyo would seek to discuss Japan's position and aspirations in the Far East with Adolf Hitler. Japanese spokesmen already have indicated a protectorate might be declared over French Indo China and The Netherlands East Indies.

U. S. LAYS KEEL FOR HUGE BATTLESHIP

Work Started on 45,000-Ton Super-Dreadnaught.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 27—The United States laid down the keel of its first 45,000-ton super-dreadnaught today and on a less dramatic defense front sought vast stores of strategically vital rubber and tin.

Start of work on the battleship Iowa at the Brooklyn navy yard and opening of negotiations by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for essential war materials typified the divergent activity of the preparedness program.

South America continued to figure prominently in the developments. The Export-Import bank granted a $20,000,000 trade loan to Argentina yesterday just as intensive Nazi economic activity was reported there. The navy, with three warships in the South Atlantic, ordered three more to the South Pacific, and government plans proceeded for financing Latin-American development of crude rubber production.

The national defense commission meanwhile pursued discussions with Packard Motor company for mass production of aircraft engines on a joint U. S.-British order. The talks followed the collapse Tuesday of negotiations with Henry Ford, who refused any but exclusively American defense contracts.

The 45,000-ton Iowa — largest battlewagon ever put on the ways for the navy—marked the beginning of a construction program which will add four huge capital ships to the fleet. It will be between 3 and 4 years before the 45,000-tonners are completed, however.

CONVENTION

lights came Grove Patterson, Toledo editor, to propose Senator Taft. For 20 minutes the Taft men whooped and yelled, waved banners and marched, while they pranched about the floor and balloons tumbled out of cages in the roof.

Willkie Backer Heckled

In his speech for Willkie, Representative Halleck encountered repeated heckling.

"I'm for him if he will keep this country out of war," he said amid a chorus of boos.

"Just a minute," he added. "You'll hear me. He knows war as a soldier who fought in France in the last war."

Shouts of laughter and more boos broke in a few minutes later when Halleck said the Willkie boom has been accomplished "without a political organization and with no campaign funds."

"No campaign funds!" laughed a man in the back of the hall.

The fist fights broke out on the floor when the demonstration started a moment or so later. Delaware, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maryland, Maine, California, New Jersey, Minnesota and Montana state standards bobbed about the hall filled with marching delegates.

But beside the Ohio standard sat Gov. John W. Bricker, hands tightly clenched about the pine pole. Right behind him, former Sen. David Reed of Pennsylvania and several husky delegates made certain the standard of their James-pledged delegation did not go astray. And in front of Bricker half a dozen Michiganders stood guard over their standard.

Robert Kasper of Marysville, R. D. No. 2, exhibited the grand champion at the fourth annual 4-H lamb show at the Union county fairgrounds in Marysville Tuesday. The animal weighed 94 pounds and was sold to Walter Asman of Marysville for 18 cents a pound.

Second place went to Robert Vollrath, of Marysville R. D. No. 2, third to Loren Kasper of Marysville R. D. No. 2 and fourth to Teddy Hoover of Peoria R. D. No. 1. Teddy also had the champion pens of three and five. Robert Vollrath of Marysville R. D. No. 2 won second in the pen of five class and Betty Taylor of Marysville R. D. No. 2 was third.

The Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. bought 18 head of lambs from the Kasper, Hoover and Vollrath flocks. The company will give a lamb dinner Friday night at Marysville for leading prize winners and officers and sponsors of the show.

Prices for the lambs averaged nearly 12 cents for 82 head.

SCHOOL ACTIVITY FUNDS

Editor of The Star: Recently it was announced through the columns of The Star that a loan fund was to be established at Harding High school, to be known as the K. H. Marshall Student Loan fund, for the assistance of worthy students who need aid in securing a higher education. This action received editorial comment, emphasizing the value of such a fund and the wisdom of honoring the man in whose name it is established.

No one will deny the value of such a fund nor disapprove of a plan of establishing it in honor of an individual if it is the result of his own efforts or comes as his own contribution. Because little has been said about this fund and its origin, the public is entitled to know the facts in the case.

As has been reported, this money will be loaned from what is now called the Harding High School fund, which has accumulated for a number of years from the net proceeds of the Junior and Senior plays, and from the publication of the Harding Herald and the Harding Quiver. The treasurer, E. H. Shade, reports the following balances in each case on the dates indicated:

Junior Play May 15, 1940	$ 267.58
Senior Play April 10, 1940	707.33
Harding Herald June 11, 1940	333.64
Harding Quiver June 11, 1940	1,011.47
Total—	$2,320.02

In addition to the above, the Senior Play this year netted $292.64 as indicated in the Treasurer's report of May 24, thus making a grand total of $2,612.66 in the treasury.

Faculty as well as pupils are constantly urged to keep expenses down in the case of the plays, often to the point where I wonder if they get all they should have to do the job efficently. When the activity is completed, they have nothing to say as to what shall be done with the proceeds. That is left for the office to decide.

At present a very small portion of the Junior Play fund is used to help pay expenses of the Junior-Senior Prom. The greater part of the expense is borne by the individual Junior students who pay fifty cents for a ticket which enables them to attend as Seniors also, without cost. If they do not bring a ticket, they cannot attend. I am wondering if it would not be more democratic to use much more of the Junior play proceeds and permit the entire class to attend if they care to do so.

Seniors leave school each year with a sizeable amount of profit from their play and have nothing to say as to what shall be done with this money. It is safe to say that few coaches are more careful than Miss Foreman to see that as little be expended as possible in staging the play, which results in a sizeable balance. In many schools the class decides on some worthwhile memorial which is left for the coming classes to enjoy.

With reference to the publications it seems to me that these balances are built up at the expense of subscribers, advertisers, and faculty sponsors who would like to have something to say regarding the financial aspects of these activities. As it has been, all decisions are made by the Principal and the Treasurer. For example, the Herald is ordinarily published from 20 to 22 times each school year. The past two years the number of editions has been reduced considerably. I do not have at hand the exact [illegible]. Yet subscribers were [illegible] the usual rate. Those [illegible] wanted to publish [illegible] of issues and [illegible] their money's [illegible] were left [illegible] available. [illegible] the [illegible]

current year. (Subscriptions are getting increasingly difficult to get because there is no guarantee that students will get the full number of issues.) Yet there was an accumulation of over $300 in the treasury from former years which were not so lean. Some of this money could have been used because a school paper is of such importance to all school activities that you could even justifiably subsidize it if necessary.

The Quiver has built up a balance of $1,011.47 over a period of years. Why should this book make a profit which is left to the school with those in charge having nothing to say as to what shall be done with the money? Why charge $1.50 for the book if it can be published for $1.25. If subscribers pay $1.50 for the book, that amount should be spent on it. This problem has been discussed by students from year to year.

Now if money does accumulate as described above, who should be given credit for the effort? Furthermore, if a committee is selected to make a decision as to what shall be done, who should constitute the majority of the committee? Should there not be student representation? I leave the answers to the questions to you. It seems only fair that students, parents, and school patrons be given the full details regarding this fund so that they may think intelligently on this subject which has caused considerable comment since announcement was made regarding it. Only once was the superintendent ever consulted regarding the expenditure of money from this fund. That was in 1936-37 when $820 was used to purchase band uniforms, a very much worthwhile project from which students themselves can profit from year to year.

CONVENTION SIDELIGHTS

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 — New political slogans are flowering in downtown hotel lobbies and in the Republican convention hall.

Here are some of the latest:

"If there's a Willkie, there's a way."

"No glamor, no sarong. Just a man who won't go wrong—Bob Taft."

"Dewey want Dewey? We do."

* * *

Joseph N. Pew Jr., Pennsylvania oil executive and political leader, was standing on the fringe of a milling throng during the demonstration for Wendell Willkie at convention hall last night. A man approached him and inquired, "Who's it going to be?"

"It looks like General Grant to me," Pew wisecracked.

George Allen a Democrat who formerly was a Washington D. C. city commissioner, was discovered on the convention floor last night. Asked what he was doing there, he said:

"Spying on the enemy."

When Wendell Willkie dashed away from a conference with Herbert Hoover, a friend inquired how he was holding up under the strain of conferences lasting all day and far into the night.

"Anybody got any wildcats?" asked Willkie, looking about the elevator he was riding down to the street.

"I've got a 13-minute interval and I'll take 'em on."

ARMY OPPOSES DRIVE FOR MILLION-MAN FORCE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 27—The prospect of a congressional drive for a regular army of 750,000 or 1,000,000 men placed the war department today in the unusual position of counselling a temporary halt in further expansion of the fighting forces.

Authoritative sources forecast there would be army opposition to any plan that would increase the number of troops beyond a maximum of 500,000. Even this would raise difficulties which some officers prefer to postpone.

The 400,000-man army, recently approved by the house, embodies the general staff's ideas of the size of land and air corps forces which can be fully organized, trained and equipped in the next few months without jeopardizing readiness to cope with an emergency.

ter, to talk over the Soviet demands.

Rumanian military planes patrolled the Bucharest airport while anti-aircraft guns were installed on the capital's tall buildings.

All Rumanian shipping was ordered to remain in port.

In the midst of all these things the Rumanian public was completely ignorant of what was under way. Newspaper were forbidden by censor to mention the Russian ultimatum.

Foreign military attaches received reports from the provinces that huge squadrons of Russian warplanes were flying over Bessarabia and northern Bucovina.

The ultimatum, it was said, was handed to Rumanian minister Davidescu at Moscow by Premier-Foreign Commisar Vyacheslaff Molotoff Wednesday night.

The chief of the Rumanian general staff visited King Carol's palace for a conference just before the grand council meetings.

The German and Italian ministers also had long talks with Carol and it was reported reliably they had urged the monarch, on behalf of their governments, to accede to the Soviet wishes.

FAMINE AND DISEASE AHEAD FOR EUROPE

Both Will Follow War If History Repeats.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO June 27—If history repeats famine, pestilence and death will be the uninvited actors on the European stage after the guns

Millions of men being called from the plow to the battle lines of belligerent countries all face prospects of scraping the bottom of the meal barrel for a time after hostilities end leaving the population of occupied countries may never become acute if the war lasts only a short time but if it is prolonged economists and experts say ravages of famine and pestilence over Europe may be worse during the 1914-24 period Herbert Hoover directed the spending of five and a half billion dollars for relief abroad.

The chance for civilization in Europe to come back again may depend on America Mr Hoover said in a recent New York speech If the war is long drawn out the United States will need to meet the question of famine and pestilence over the whole of Europe During and after the World War Hoover's relief commissions nearly 34 000 000 metric tons of supplies to more than 20 European countries This tonnage would have filled more than 500 American freight cars and required more than 6 700 vessels of 5,000 tons each for transAtlantic shipment

While a strict censorship conceals actual conditions, there have been indications that the war already has bored deeply into the food reserves of belligerent countries.

Great Britain early in June launched a vast agricultural program to bolster her food supply since she could no longer depend on exports from German-occupied Denmark and Holland

CHAPTER THREE

YESTERDAY The robbery of the chaplain's car and clothes is the second occurrence of the kind recently at Fort Michigan Adam explains The chaplain's plight arouses amusement on the post.

Gerald Beaufort

THAT noon, in the mess hall Colonel Pennant asked the junior medical officer how the chaplain was

Captain Jones's slightly prominent eyes blinked his Adam's apple made a couple of trips up and down

Sorry he mumbled 'Didn't realize I was being addressed The chaplain, sir? Worst case of poison oak I ever saw. We washed him—did everything we could He seems unusually susceptible to it. Face hands swollen out of shape'

I'm sure we all tried to keep decently sober I know I did But in spite of all I could do little shuddery giggles began to escape me Adam pink faced was avoiding my eye and feeding radishes rapidly into his mouth Colonel Pennant made clucking sounds through lips that could not seem to keep from stretching horizontally And Felicia at the head of the table eyes round and mouth folded was I felt quite composing one of her line for later recital enough without pulverizing it he said with distaste

What's the matter with him demanded Colonel Pennant

His wife's in Chicago having a baby she told him resignedly I always the right doctors look after such matters very highly but it seems that's only when it's the other guy

Lines that were not from Laughter deepened in Colonel Pennant's face and I remembered what Adam had told me that the first Mrs Pennant had died when Julia was born Light flared at Felicia Bridewell and I felt that she had just remembered too

Eyelashes Too

I don't know why it is that at such moments talk dries up like spilled alcohol leaving behind the same chill You could feel the attempted circulation around the table I had just opened my mouth to make some poisonous remark about the weather when I glanced toward the door and saw what at first I took to be a mirage I left the remark unspoken and the mouth open for as the vision advanced it turned into the handsomest young man ever seen anywhere by anyone

He was wearing something special in the way of civilian clothes which in itself was enough to mark him as not of the army for the civilian clothes of most officers are apt to be special in quite a different way But the faultless tailoring was only the gilding on the lily He had shoulders he had length he was built

Then as he paused beside the vacant chair across the table from me I saw that he had eyelashes

While Felicia was informing me that he was Mr Gerald Beaufort (pronounced Bewfort) and introducing him formally around the table I surveyed those lashes in rows for the unworthy thought did just occur to me that they might be artificial And then with a little bow and not quite clicking his heels he said

'From Peeles in London'

So it was really the voice that got me and I make no apologies Take a pair of Middle Western ears tuned to the flattest accent on the globe expose them to English well spoken by an Englishman—not the lah-de-dah of bored affectation or the vocal acrobatics of the Cockney but the unpretentious sterling article——

Hm you're a new man' observed Colonel Pennant Used to be a big yellow red face regular John Bull'

Gerald Beaufort inclined his head

My uncle Laid up with gout' He drew down his mouth sadly 'Poor old duffer'

I'm often a bridesmaid never a bride I said sadly

Remember him

Remember him very well I let him buy Pete boots myself back I was young and foolish Before I was a family man Up to my Adam and Jeff Him little self him too Too bad you didn't get here a month or two earlier Beaufort We're about to have a wedding on the post

Gerald Beaufort's eyes those special gray rimmed eyes—met mine over the table

The bride? he asked pleasantly but with just the right hint of regret

Not this time Adam said just a pleasantly The blue eyes and the gray met and measured each other

I'm often a bridesmaid never a bride I told him Ha

Adam said You don't live right

Gerald Beaufort screwed an imaginary monocle into his eye leaned confidentially toward me across the table

Are you double jointed he asked politely

I I'm afraid not'

'How jolly' Neither am I Perhaps we're soul mates'

Having settled that he turned his attention to the soup

Felicia Bridewell telegraphed me one of her looks that meant in my language Loopy'

Are you susceptible to poison oak' Adam began but why am I was not allowed to finish

'If you don't mind' said Gerald Beaufort politely when the laughter had died down I feel like a new boy at school I laugh at the jokes but I don't understand them I've been hearing echoes of that one ever since I arrived this morning Whats is my about poison oak Dash dash-omfor Lilli I'm told——

You mean to say you don't know' Felicia asked incredulously

It's quite a story' agreed Colonel Pennant and told it with relish

I still say it must be dashed uncomfortable said Gerald Beaufort when he had finished

You'd think so Adam said grumpily if you had to lie there trying to keep himself up on the cuff'

Is there any hope of escaping the duff' Felicia asked Who investigates anyways an affair of this kind'

In this particular case the state police Colonel Pennant told her The whole thing occurred off the post Crime which occur on a government reservation are either investigated by the post personnel or by Department of justice men sent for the purpose We notified the police first thing and they came out and talked to Chaplain Hess He couldn't tell them much

New Helicopter Develops Own Wind for Flight

By The Associated Press

ATLANTA — A Helicopter whose rotor or propellor blade is driven by air—much like a lawn sprinkler turned by water—is being developed by scientists at the Georgia School of Technology

The blade which lifts and maneuvers the experimental flying machine in any direction is hollow and is driven at great speed by a jet of air from a nozzle at its tip Other Helicopters have a mechanically-driven rotor

Six years of research under Prof Montgomery Knight head of the aeronautics school have brought the machine to a point where it may take the air for final tests this year

The single seater 100 horsepower machine is about 16 feet long and eight feet high It weighs 550 pounds

The helicopters wind stream is generated by a motor driven fan 18 inches in diameter inside the fuselage The fan has 98 two-inch blades and revolves at 12 000 revolutions a minute The rotor—a single blade propeller with a counter weight to balance it—serves as wing propeller elevator aileron and rudder The angle at which the rotor is tilted determines whether the machine travels up down forward backward or in circles

The machine Knight said is somewhat like a rocket or old-fashioned fireworks pinwheel in that it employs what is known as jet propulsion

Mayo Clinic Doctors Help U. S. Pilots Fly Higher

By The Associated Press

While factories pushed into production planes able to soar higher and higher no one bothered much about enabling pilots to safely go up there with them

But two Mayo clinic physicians told the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences that equipping the human machine for high altitudes is running ahead of equipping the flying machine for the same thing

Drs Walter M Boothby and W Randolph Lovelace II described to the institute experiments made with Army Capt Ouse O Benson Jr and demonstrated an oxygen breathing device and a machine in which an individual may himself simulate the atmospheric pressure of high altitudes and study his own reactions

Big cylinders of this type capable of housing up to 20 men are in use in Los Angeles Dayton O and Seattle But the machine the Rochester Minnesota men demonstrated will accommodate only one individual

In the speeding of pilot training Dr Boothby said it is of utmost importance that requirements of the individual not be overlooked In small cabinets each student can regulate his oxygen supply to his own needs, can discover by experimental manipulation of pressure valves how rapidly he can safely ascend or descend

"Thus by the time he enters a plane for his first high altitude flight he knows how to take care of himself'

The oxygen breather consists of a portable tank connected to a rubber device fitting comfortably over the nose Oxygen can be inhaled at a volume increasing with the planes height until at about 35 000 feet the subject breathes the pure element

Dr Lovelace has created pressure equal to that at 40 000 feet in eight and one half minutes within the tank He believes that about the maximum height at which the oxygen apparatus used alone is safe

But in combination with cabin planes in which superchargers maintain a high pressure he and Dr Boothby anticipate altitudes around 60 000 feet if developments continue Both believe the pressurized cabin ideal for commercial planes flying at 20 000 feet or so but consider the oxygen device essential for military ships.

One chief difficulty of the pressurized cabin they pointed out is the ease with which a couple of well aimed bullets can puncture the compressed air A fleeing oxygen tank isn't nearly so apt to be hit

Sen. Taft Called Man Who Will Save U. S. from Fate That Befell France

Ohioan Knows the Answers, Backers Tell Republicans in Convention Speeches.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27 — Robert A. Taft: — a man knows the answers" and save America from what ened to France"— in these tributes, the Ohioan placed in nomination for dent at the national Republ convention last night.

quent Grove Patterson, edi the Toledo Blade, made the nating speech, offering Taft candidate "who in a crisis, what to do."

presented Taft as "an ing vote-getter," a man with structive program" and ex enced in international affairs. He will save America from happened to France," said Warren R. Austin of Ver in a seconding speech.

Mrs. A. G. Natwick of Wash asserted "in January the keye state will become the mother of a president." mentioned by Patterson as mother of presidents," was the home of William How Taft, the candidate's father a former president and chief ice of the United States.

Other seconders:

Judge King Swope of Kentucky if you'll nominate him this ck, you'll inaugurate him in uary."

Herman H. Langworthy of Mis —"Taft knows the American ple don't want the government sume dominion over all their ities."

Amazing Vote Getter

Ohio offered Taft to the con tion, said Patterson, because e is experienced in international irs, has a "constructive pro m" and is "an amazing vote getter."

"The American people have come desperately tired of ooning, of glamor unsupported achievement, of defense pre se instead of defense prepara tion," Patterson continued. "They are ready for clear thinking, expression unafraid, honest conviction honestly expressed. Confronted by the bewildering problems of this day, there is no substitute for knowing what to do. In the storm and stress of life, there is no substitute for having the courage to do it.

"Our candidate, by natural habit and experience, faces hard facts with tranquility and without fear. He knows what to do and he is not afraid."

With European war and domestic defense problems spotlighting foreign relations throughout the convention, Patterson devoted much of his address to Taft's experience and qualifications for handling international affairs.

He cited the senator's contacts with foreign affairs from boyhood, as the son of a diplomat who later became President and also chief justice of the United States. He pointed to Taft's experience with the American relief administration and inter-allied economic council during and after the World war and to his early advocacy of repealing the arms embargo.

"His work in devastated Europe, his common sense and courage in meeting foreign issues as they arose in the senate, and his program for national defense fit him, in mind and character, to guide American foreign policy," Patterson concluded.

Taft's victory in the 1938 Ohio senatorial primary and his subsequent defeat of Democrat Robert J. Bulkley in the election mark the Ohioan as "an amazing vote-getter," Patterson told the delegates, asserting it meant a turnover of nearly 800,000 votes despite "all the ingenuity of the New Deal high command."

Following Taft's nomination, supporters jammed the aisles in a boisterous demonstration.

Hundreds of Taft banner and picture bearers never reached the floor, unable to move in the maelstrom which surged through the convention hall.

Other States Join Parade

Among the state banners in the Taft procession were Indiana, Kentucky, California, Colorado, Texas, Utah, Iowa, Washington, Arkansas and Georgia.

As delegates paraded, red, white and blue balloons drifted from the ceiling. Participants appropriated noisemakers distributed for the earlier demonstration in behalf of Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

"Taft's CCC—courageous, candid and conscientious," was the wording of one banner. Others read: "Taft's WPA — we'll protect America, out of daze to happy days," and "no glamor, no sarong; just a man who won't go wrong."

"Get on the raft with Taft," William Howard Taft's campaign song, was used frequently on the signs.

Ten minutes after the procession started, Rep. George Bender of Cleveland shouted into the speaker's microphone for demonstrators to take their seats "since this could go on an hour." Then he led three cheers, but it was another ten minutes before order was restored.

As the convention received the name of Ohio's junior senator, Wendell L. Willkie adherents from that state complained Ohio headquarters had failed to advise Buckeye delegates of the heavy mail and telegrams urging Willkie's support.

This Ohio group contended the delegation was entitled to know about home sentiment for the New York utility executive if the "favorite son" was not nominated. The Willkie contingent cited especially a telegraphic petition from Youngstown with 3,100 signers, urging delegates to climb on the Willkie wagon.

Ohio headquarters said individual messages had been delivered to delegates and that those addressed to the delegation were available to anyone wanting to see them. A spokesman denied any attempt to censor communications addressed to the delegation.

WHEAT PRICES SHOW LOSSES FOR SESSION

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO June 27 — While grain traders awaited clarification of negotiations that might lead to a reopening of the continental European market for foodstuff imports wheat prices today fluctuated nervously advancing first then declining to net losses for the session

Rumors of possible truce in Europe and development of a western hemisphere export program encouraged most dealers to adopt a waiting attitude Some hedging sales and favorable weather conditions to harvest in the southwest and spring crop growth in parts of the northwest contributed to the late reaction

Wheat closed 1 1¾ cents lower than yesterday July 77 September 77½ corn off to ⅞ up July 60¾ September 58⅞-59 oats ¼-½ down
